DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 8 &11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Saruta et al. (# US 6533383).

Saruta et al. discloses a print cartridge including read and/or write storage medium (see Abstract; column: 16, line: 43-52) operable using an electromagnetic beam (column: 16, line: 45-52), wherein cartridge including inkjet printer cartridge (see Abstract; figure: 2, 3a-3b; 7, 8a-8b).

2. Claims 32-33, 35-36 & 38-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Saruta et al. (# US 6533383).

Saruta et al. discloses a replaceable print cartridge including read and/or write storage medium (see Abstract; column: 16, line: 43-52, figure: 2, 7) operable using an electromagnetic beam (column: 16, line: 45-52), wherein cartridge including inkjet printer cartridge (see Abstract; figure: 2, 3a-3b; 7, 8a-8b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Saruta et al. (# US 6533383) in view of Gamblin et al. (# US 3656827).

Saruta et al. discloses a replaceable print cartridge including read and/or write storage medium (see Abstract; column: 16, line: 43-52, figure: 2, 7) operable using an electromagnetic beam (column: 16, line: 45-52), wherein cartridge including inkjet printer cartridge (see Abstract; figure: 2, 3a-3b; 7, 8a-8b).

Saruta et al. differs from the claim of the present invention in that the storage medium comprises a hologram using an electromagnetic beam.

Gamblin teaches the storage medium is a hologram (Abstract), the hologram comprises a writeable, readable (see Abstract, Column: 3, line: 22-50) and hologram can be written using a laser which is electromagnetic beam.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as modify to have the storage medium comprises a hologram using electromagnetic beam as taught by Gamblin. The motivation of doing so is obtain a greater volumetric efficiency in storage and lower cost.

4. Claims 9 & 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Saruta et al. (# US 6533383) in view of Gamblin et al. (# US 3656827).

Saruta et al. teaches all the limitation of the print cartridge except that the storage medium comprises a hologram using an electromagnetic beam.

Gamblin teaches the storage medium is a hologram (Abstract), the hologram comprises a writeable, readable (see Abstract, Column: 3, line: 22-50) and hologram can be written using a laser which is electromagnetic beam.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as modify to have the storage medium comprises a hologram using electromagnetic beam as taught by Gamblin. The motivation of doing so is obtain a greater volumetric efficiency in storage and lower cost.

5. Claims 10 & 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Saruta et al. (# US 6533383) in view of Bullock et al. (# US 5,812,156).

Saruta et al. teaches all the limitation of the print cartridge except that the storage medium comprises indicia of authenticity.

Bullock teaches the storage medium comprises indicia of authenticity (column: 4, line: 23-50).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as modify to have the storage medium comprises indicia of authenticity and manufacturing line as taught by Bullock. The motivation of doing so is provide updated parameters to customers who already have installed printers.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 13-31 are allowed.
